A CANADIAN WINTER.

Sports Patronized by Young and Old Throughout the Cold Season.

more genuine enjoyment from a long, severe winter than Canada. Montrealers in particular seem to be first in adopting the sports of other wintry countries, and the situation of the city at the base of a mountain which is devoted to the people makes mountain, this one of ours, and one always feels grateful to the volcano that is reputed to have created it.

For the last week the thermometer has been vacillating between 10 and 20 degrees below zero; tonight the temperature is somewhat milder. A curious procession winds its way up the mountain side, almost ghostlike, seen in the dim lights, the moving figures silhouetted against the white background of snow. Even the trees with their bare arms stretched heavenward seem like phantom giants crying out a silent warning to the crowd of merrymakers. And

NO ARGUMENT NEEDED

EVERY SUFFERER FROM CATARRII KNOWS THAT SALVES, LOTIONS, WASHES, SPRAYS AND DOUCHES DO

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhalers cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and local applications, if they accomplish anything at all, simply give translent re-

The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and traches tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucus, the discharge sometimes closing up the nestrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eustachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of stomach or serious throat

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an in ternal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and conges tion from the mucous membrane.

The best and most modern remedies for this purse are antiseptics scientifically known as Red Sum, Blood Root and Hydrastin, and while each well they may warn, for their refusing to make way for an ungovernable toboggan has caused many a broken head or rib. The monotonous thud of snowshoes on the hard, crisp snow, the swish of Norwe-gian skiis, the long line of low sleighs with flowing buffalo robes and jingling bells, the merry laughter and talk of those on foot dragging their toboggans, the picturesque costumes, sashes, sweaters and blanket coats-it seems hard to believe that you are not in Russia or Norway. Excitement is in the air, an atmosphere of keen, healthy enjoyment that is irresistible. There is to be a "fete de nuit" at the Park Toboggan Slide tonight-that is the destina-

it possible for these sports to become part of the every-day life. It is a beautiful the every-day life. It is a beautiful the montain. It consists of four shoots or tracks of solid ice banked up on either side with snow to prevent the toboggans from jumping the track, is at an angle of about 25 degrees and half a mile long. Huge bonfires have been lit on either side, and the slide is illuminated by torches, Chinese lanterns and colored lights that throw now a pale green, now a rose colored reflection on the snow, then again make it seem like a livid mass of flame. And above it all the stars shine on in their clear, cold brilliance, silently watching. A man, or presumably a man, for he is so muffled up that he might be anything, calls out "ready." The dramatic effect is marvelous. He turns a handle and a board barrier in front of you drops like a guillo-tine. You shoot out into space. One flash of many lights, a consciousness of glaring ice, a feeling such as one has when one falls into space in a dream—that is all. Impossible to see or hear or think, but it is only a matter of a few seconds—and a half mile walk back. The whole scene reminds one of a circus. Those who are unable or unwilling to dare the greater risk indulge in little sideshows of their own.

TUBERCULOSIS.

The Ever Debatable Question of Its Curability. From the Philadelphia Medical Journal.

The statement (made by J. H. Lowman, in his article read before the Academy of Medicine in Cleveland) that it is not at all unlikely that tuberculosis is a universal disease, and that all mankind are more or less susceptible to it, as they are to measles, will be a surprise to many. If this is true then the whole race must be taught how to live and where to live, how to rest and when to stop, as well as how to avoid contagion. At the present time more `______ temperature usually falls to normal. If by three weeks the temperature has not fallen to normal the case may be considered un-favorable, and the patient should not be kept in the sanatorium. Opinions differ as to what constitutes a recovery, but we think to what constitutes a recovery, but we think there can be no question when we say it is one in which no pathological changes can be detected, after repeated examinations, in the lungs, and in which there are no cough, no expectoration and no bacilli. A markedly improved case is one in which there is no evidence of disease. It is exceedingly important that the various sanatoria should important that the various sanatoria should adopt a common standard, so that comparison may be made by observers.

Quinine in Typhoid Fever.

From the Philadelphia Medical Journal. When the coal tar products were introduced as substitutes for quinine they were received with an enthusiasm which only embittered the more the disappointment following the discovery that none of them are free from danger and even the safest are only limited in their applicability in the treatment of fevers. This realization of the shortcomings of these new antipyretics wrought a reaction which resulted in a sort of therapeutic nihilism, in so far as the or therapeute ninlism, in so far as the drug treatment of the fever proper is concerned. Quinine is generally no longer thought of as an all-around antipyretic and is used mainly as a tonic or as the specific against malaria. So grounded has become the general belief that large doses of quining can be useful only the related of quinine can be useful only in malaria that this drug is used for diagnostic pur-poses, and any remittent fever which yields to the administration of large doses of quinine is pronounced by some clinicians to be malaria, without any examination of the blood, or even in spite of the absence of plasmodia. This view, however, is undergoing some modification, and the time-honored quinine is again brought to the front as an antipyretic by some German clini-

Teaching French at Annapolis.

"Teaching French by machinery is the latest method in vogue at the Naval Academy," said an old naval officer to a Star man in the lobby of the New Willard this morning. "When I was a student at the academy we had to depend solely upon one of the professors, and then when we got to France in our travels we had to learn the language over again. Nowadays the phonograph is used. A genuine French teacher in France talks the language into the machine, and the cylinders, reproducing
